

Dear incoming PK-4 parents,

Though summer break is only a few months long, it is important to maintain the incredible academic and social skills your child has learned during the school year. Summer slumps occur when students are not actively practicing the skills taught during the school year. Summer can be a great opportunity for the students to practice the skills they may have hesitation on.

Inside this packet, you will find a variety of activities in writing, mathematics and fine motor skills activities. We encourage you to have a set of number and letter flash cards at home for number and letter recognition as well as letter sounds practice. These activities will assist your child in getting ready for their big PK-4 year! Take your time spreading out the activities across the summer. We suggest 2-3 pages per day, along with sight words and handwriting practice, to be completed over 8 weeks. Revisit activities that your child may not be confident in. A repetition of the activities will make for a stronger start to your child's school year.

Fine motor skills are especially important to visit over the summer! It is encouraged that your child has authentic play experiences, limiting screen time. Encourage and partake in activities with your student such as reading books, playing outside, drawing pictures, building towers, and engaging in dramatic play.

If you have any questions, don't hesitate to ask. Have a wonderful summer!
